Nine out of Ten: A Remarkable Story of Faith, Heroism & Divine Providence

When the Nazis entered Hungary in March 1944, the Katz family was one amongst the thousands of unfortunate, defenseless Jews left to their own devices against the terrifying, powerful German army. The Nazis, by that time, had perfected their murder machine to a science; the Jews were all but doomed.

At war's end, the piteous, battered remnants of a once-proud Hungarian Jewry began making their way back to their hometowns in search of fellow survivors. The Katz family was no different. Or were they? An astounding nine out of ten siblings from one family - an almost unheard of survival rate - escaped death to be reunited. This is their story - and what a story it was! Resourcefulness, courage, and amazing acts of heroism, showing kindness toward their fellow Jews, at the risk of their very lives; flight, imprisonment, deportation and escape; hope, despair, prayer and faith; these are some of the elements that combine to create a Holocaust saga unlike any you've ever heard before - until now.

Dr. Moshe Katz was born in Uzhorod, Czechoslovakia in 1924. During the war he masqueraded as a gentile, changing identities many times in many different places. An innovator at a very young age, he hid and fed over twenty people in an underground hideout, right under the feet of the Nazis! He now dedicates his life to ensuring that the Holocaust will never be forgotten, by lecturing to groups of all ages, of every faith, in schools and colleges. His unique blend of stories, of both suffering and hope, captivates and inspires his audiences forever.

Nachman Seltzer is a master writer and author of "The Edge," "The Link" and "The Blink of an Eye." This narrative was featured in weekly installments in the Hamodia newspaper under the title "My Mission."
